

Prodigy Law Group was recently presented with a special Certificate of Congressional Recognition from the office of U.S. Congressman John Campbell (California 48th District). The certificate was presented in recognition of the firm's outstanding and invaluable service to the community and its efforts to provide legal assistance to consumers and small business owners. In addition, the Congressman's office noted the firm's involvement in the local community through organizations such as the YMCA of Orange County as well as its role as a growing and successful new business in the district.

"It is extremely gratifying to receive this recognition of our work and of the issues we are addressing," said Seth Heyman, managing director of Prodigy Law Group. "Millions of our fellow citizens are facing unprecedented challenges, often without the kind of professional support they need to deal with the complex legal aspects of their situations."

Prodigy Law Group, based in Irvine, Calif., provides a range of professional services to consumers, families and small businesses that need help dealing with the consequences of debt and an economic environment that has become increasingly hostile, including mortgage abuse counseling, abusive debt collection resolution, bankruptcy counseling, and related consumer matters.
